

ABSTRACT

A fabricating method for a semiconductor device includes forming a heat spreading material on rear surface of the semiconductor wafer. The semiconductor wafer has a plurality of device areas and scribe lines which are arranged between the device areas. After the heat spreading material is formed on rear surface of the semiconductor wafer, the semiconductor wafer is separated at the scribe lines.